COME TO JESUS. Come now to the Redcemer ! While yet earth's paths are bright
With beauty, love and gladness,
And youth's fair dawning light—

While yet the sunny flowers Are strewn around thy way, And like some dancing streamlet, Thy joyous pulses play.

Come now to the Redeemer! oon will thy youth be past; The storms of care come sweeping, The blossoms wither fast. And every year its sorrow Each day its grief will bring, Till fled are thy bright visions,

With hope and joy and spring. Come now to the Redeemer ! And youth's unclouded sky, Shall flush with tenfold beauty, At His approving eye. Then, when the dark clouds gather,

And this bright earth grows drear, Thy very darkest hour His gracious smile shall cheer. Come now to the Redeemer! And He thy friend will be, In tribulation's furnace, His might shall strengthen thee.

When passing through the valley, His love shall be thy stay, And thou shalt see his glory A LITTLE WORD.

For the number and denomination of religious societies in the colony at this time, we extract from Callender's century sermon, the following, namely:

The people who came to Rhode Island who were pure Puritans of the highest form, had desired and depended on the assistance of Mr. Wheelright, a famous Congregational Minister aforementioned. But he chose to go to Long Island, where he continued some years. In the meantime Mr. John Clark, who was a man of letters, carried on public worship (as Mr. Brewster did at Plymouth) at the first coming, till who was admitted a freeman here August vote called to keep a public school for the learning of youth, and for his encourageheirs one hundred acres of land, and four who answered her summons, send for Amy Moore, and tell her I want her to come Make haste, Amy, for I've made up my She burst into a passionate flood of tears.
